

As to a growing tree, which needs roots for strong foundation, a person needs education to mold him to become a professional – someone who can be highly competitive as well as a person packed with proper attitude and values.

