Growing up in a society where people seemed to have given up the will to make big changes to what has been conventional in the struggling lives of their grandparents and parents, where people were so content with their three square meals a day brushing off the possibility of trying more than that and where you were indoctrinated that education was only for the rich and that I'd rather drop my books, I seemed to lose all hopes of a good education until I became part of Kff Foundation... The Foundation strengthens my will of super action. It made me think BIG.. that there is more to life than merely eating to exist... It made me realise how much I could do to free myself from society's unjust standards and despite compelling pressure of poverty. The Foundation made me the I-can-do-it person. I learn to try to get by than merely complaining. The EDUCATION, that the society made me feel I didn't deserve, became a REALITY. The Foundation did not only send me to school to study, they sent me to LEAD. I lead various student organizations. And the Foundation even sent me to represent my school from various inter-school activities from debates to organizing leadership seminars. The Foundation breeds LEADERS. From the various seminars conducted every Saturday in the Foundation, I learned to make plans work and dreams to action. Until now, what the Foundation has made me become is what's keeping me going. I'm pursuing my Law studies at night while I work in the day. The Foundation moves us, the YOUTH, to stand strong and think right amidst complexities.
